Upgrade Your Heating and Cooling Equipment

If your heating system is eight years old or older replacing or upgrading your system can save you up to 50% on your heating bill. If you have an older system, it might operate with as little as 50% efficiency. That means half the fuel you put in gets wasted. Thanks to tech advances, new heating and cooling equipment commonly operates with 80% to 96% efficiency.

Get A Solar Water Heater

In general, solar water heater systems can be more costly to purchase and setup than standard gas or electric water heating systems. However, by using a solar heater you will definitely save money on the long run.. By selecting to use solar energy technology you can expect to save around 50 to 80% on your electricity bills.

Repair Ducts in Your Home

Even if you have the most efficient furnace and air conditioner known to man, if the ducts that funnel that precious hot or cold air around your house are in bad shape, you'll still lose way too much energy. Leaky ducts in your basement and attic are especially costly: Who wants to waste temperature-controlled air in parts of the house you rarely enter? Get your ducts sealed today.
